(XLIIId YEAR.) THE (No. 2160.)

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1788.

VIENNA, March 1.

ACCORDING to advices from the commander in chief in Hungary, dated Peterwaradin, February 22, arrangements were made for seizing or destroying the Turkish veſſels upon the Danube. In conſequence of this colonel Clernol ordered major Legrade to proceed to the attack of the nine large veſſels laying at anchor at Bereſka, and to endeavour to remove them to the oppoſite ſhore. Notwithſtanding a reſolute oppoſition from the Turks, they were compelled to abandon their ſhips, ſix of which were taken to the other ſide of the river.—The other three veſſels, which were ſurrounded with ice, were rendered unfit for ſervice. We had four men killed and ſix wounded. The loſs of the enemy is not known.

In the night between the 10th and 11th of laſt month, a Turkiſh veſſel with ſix men on board, ſeveral horſes and other effects, were taken by our people on the lower part of the Gliſſar, and the men were made priſoners of war.

March 2. The emperor ſet out very early yeſterday morning for Trieſte, by the way of Gratz and Laubach, at each of which cities he will ſtop one day; ſo that he will hardly reach Trieſte before the 6th inſtant.

Marſhal Lacy departed this morning for the army, which has ſuffered a real loſs by the ſudden deceaſe of general Caramelli, who held, under marſhal Laddick, the ſecond place in the war department.

LONDON, March 19.

Extract of a letter from Vienna, dated February 28.

"The operations of war are already begun bloodily. One garriſon of the Turks has already been cut to pieces. Our earlieſt intelligence preſents no welcome news. The Ottomans will grow deſperate, the Muns no leſs ſo; ſo that the moſt dreadful and unwelcome operations are to be expected. It is paſt doubt the emperor will ſhortly put himſelf at the head of his forces."

Extract of a letter from Vienna, March 12.

"The only news relative to the war, in which we can put any confidence is, that our troops are making rapid progreſs in Walachia, where they find but little reſiſtance, owing to the greateſt part of the Ottoman forces being carried towards Boſnia, Servia and the frontiers of the Buckowin."

March 29. The following is a copy of a letter from Joſeph Brame, Eſquire, the Britiſh conſul at Genoa, to the marquis of Carmarthen, ſecretary of ſtate for the foreign department, dated March 10:

"My lord, I think it my duty to acquaint your lordſhip that this health office has received authentic intelligence, that the plague has broke out in Algiers; and alſo that it rages very violently at Conſtantinople, from whence the worſt conſequences are dreaded, as it cannot fail being ſoon communicated to the Imperial and Ruſſian armies.

I am, &c.

JOSEPH BRAME."

The treaty between the United States and Pruſſia is concluded. That which impeded the treaty between Great-Britain and the ſtates, was the very important but very complicated buſineſs of the India commerce and ſettlements. And it is, we underſtand, at length agreed, that a convention ſhould be formed, to arrange and finally adjuſt the India ſyſtem within ſix months of the concluſion of the treaty of alliance.

March 25. By private letters from Vienna, we have received the following intelligence: "An unhappy event has taken place with reſpect to the regiment of Pellegrin; that fine corps, compoſed of 1500 of the beſt troops in the Imperial ſervice, having advanced too prematurely and unguardedly on the right ſide of the Danube, were ſurpriſed and totally deſtroyed by a numerous body of Turkiſh cavalry. They were moſtly cut to pieces in the conflict, and thoſe made priſoners were beheaded, and their heads ſent to Conſtantinople." This unwarrantable exerciſe of cruelty in the troops of the Porte, may perhaps excite a ſpirit of retaliation in the Imperialiſts, which will lead to that vindictive and barbarous mode of conducting the war, that has not of late years diſgraced the arms of civilized nations.

April 2. Private letters from Madrid, by Tueſday's mail, bring advice, that the court of Spain has prepared a manifeſto to ſend to all the courts of Europe, ſetting forth her determination to oppoſe with all her forces the Ruſſian ſquadron entering into the Mediterranean; and that in conſequence freſh orders have been iſſued to the war departments, both naval and military, to make every poſſible and ſpeedy preparation for that purpoſe.

Extract of a genuine letter from an officer in India, dated Madras, October 11, 1787.

"We are every day here in alarm about Tippoo's intention, as he is making every preparation, and is ſuppoſed to have ſome deſign againſt the king of Trovancore, whom we ſhall be obliged to ſupport if he is attacked, and demands our aſſiſtance. If it comes to that, I fancy Tippoo will deſire for our army is now in the moſt excellent order, and have every thing ready to take the field at a moment's warning. Sir Archibald will, it is ſaid, take the command in perſon, ſhould there be occaſion.

"With one more material piece of intelligence we muſt conclude, which is, that the death of the nabob of Arcott is hourly expected. He has been long in a lingering ſituation; whenever this takes place, it will occaſion a moſt important revolution in Aſiatic politics."

NASSAU, (New-Providence) April 19.

Extract of a letter from colonel Alexander M'Gillivray, chief of the Creek Indians, dated Little Talaſſee, January 6, 1788.

"In my laſt I informed you, that the Georgians had barbarouſly murdered eleven of my people on the hunting grounds, for which we demanded ſatisfaction in form. Inſtead of complying with this our juſt demand, they returned us a defiance, conceived in the moſt inſolent terms, and threatened to drive us over the Miſſiſippi. I came then to the determination to accept the alternative of compelling them to take refuge on the ſea iſlands, or being forced to the threatened extremity. In conſequence of having decided in this manner, our warriors turned out, ſpread devaſtation on all the frontiers, and excited a general panic and conſternation throughout the whole ſtate. You muſt be ſenſible, my friend, and ſo muſt every diſpaſſionate man be, that the obſtinate perſeverance of the Georgians in acts of injuſtice, barbarity and oppreſſion, obliged us to have recourſe to ſuch deſperate reſolves. Self-preſervation, the love of country, and every other ſentiment that dignifies human nature, dictated them; nor ſhall we throw aſide the bloody hatchet, until our enemies deſiſt from their encroachments on our territory, and give ſuch aſſurances as we can rely on, for their never being renewed in future times."

Extract of a letter from Charleſton, dated April 5, 1788.

"A few days ago arrived here from Cuba, a brig and a ſloop with between thirty and forty thouſand dollars on board, beſides mahogany and hides. Theſe veſſels I underſtand were poſitively bound for Naſſau, but upon their hearing of the ſeizure of a ſloop from St. Auguſtine, they thought it prudent to alter their voyage for this place. I am afraid this ſeizure will be the means of hurting your trade with the Spaniards."

LITCHFIELD.

By a gentleman directly from the Ohio country, we learn, that the emigration into thoſe parts is very rapid, and from its preſent population bids fair to rival with the moſt fertile and flouriſhing ſettlements—that the excellency of ſoil and ſalubrity of the air is particularly inviting;—and that the preſent conduct of the Indians is portentous of laſting harmony. Our informant is an officer in the corps of this ſtate ſtationed at Fort Franklin, near the mouth of French creek, 50 miles above Fort Pitt;—who, further to demonſtrate the pacific diſpoſition of the Indians, mentions the following circumſtance:—That in the month of January laſt a number of boats were diſpatched with flour, &c. from the commiſſary at the laſt to the garriſon firſt mentioned; immediately after their departure they were ice bound and could not poſſibly purſue their route; and as the troops were in the utmoſt diſtreſs for bread, no way of affording them relief was practicable than through the medium of the Indians; in this dilemma the head warriors were applied to for aſſiſtance, who directly ordered a ſufficient number of their young men to aſſiſt in conveying proviſions from the boats to Fort Franklin; a chearful acquieſcence, and unremitted exertions ſoon relieved the garriſon, as the Indians brought upwards of 10001b of flour into the fort on their backs.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.

We have the following particulars of the late unhappy accident at New-Orleans, by the ſchooner Governor Miro:—On Good Friday, the 21ſt of March laſt, at half after one, P. M. a dreadful fire broke out in the dwelling-houſe of the treaſurer of New-Orleans; ſo violent, that notwithſtanding all the pains and good diſpoſition taken by the governor and intendant, it was impoſſible to ſtop the progreſs of it. The wind being very high and variable, the fire caught in ſeveral parts of the town almoſt at the ſame time; ſo that in the ſpace of 4 or 5 hours ſeven-eighths of the town were conſumed; and the rapidity of the fire prevented almoſt every citizen from ſaving their merchandize and other effects; and, upon a calculation made after the fire, it appeared that the loſs amounted to about 6 or 7 millions of dollars. It is preſumed, that from the repreſentation made by the governor and intendant of Louiſiana, of the calamitous ſituation of the inhabitants there, to his catholic majeſty, that his liberality and piety will extend ſo far as to give his ſubjects ſuch relief as will tend to the re-eſtabliſhment of that colony in a ſhort time. A great proof of the good intentions of that government appears by a late reimburſement of property confiſcated in an illicit trade, to the amount of between 70 and 80 thouſand dollars, without waiting the king's pleaſure—ſo well aſſured were they of that indulgence being granted to them by their king—and this idea was firſt ſuggeſted by Don Manuel Serano, the intendant aſſeſſor.

Extract of a letter from Utrecht, dated February 2.

"A prodigious number of people who are out of all employment, from the ſtop put to trade, have been ſet to work by the proprietors of the lands to cut drains for letting off the waters occaſioned by the recent floods, the weather having been almoſt generally rainy ſince the commencement of the year. The water mills which were deſtroyed laſt year will be rebuilt at the expence of the ſtates."

May 27. By an act of the Britiſh parliament lately paſſed, entitled, "An act for regulating the trade between the ſubjects of his majeſty's colonies and plantations in North-America and the countries belonging to the United States of America, &c." it is enacted—

"That no goods or commodities whatever ſhall be imported or brought from any of the territories belonging to the ſaid United States of America, into any of his majeſty's Weſt-India iſlands (in which deſcription the Bahama iſlands, and the Bermuda or Summer iſlands are included) under the penalty of the forfeiture thereof, and alſo of the ſhip or veſſel in which they ſhall be ſo imported or brought, together with all her guns, furniture, ammunition, tackle and apparel, except tobacco, pitch, tar, turpentine, hemp, flax, maſts, yards, bowſprits, ſtaves, heading, boards, timber, ſhingles, and lumber of any ſort; horſes, neat cattle, ſheep, hogs, poultry, and live ſtock of any ſort; bread, biſcuit, flour, peas, beans, potatoes, wheat, rice, oats, barley, and grain of any ſort; commodities reſpectively, being the growth or production of any of the territories of the ſaid United States of America."

The above enumerated articles that are permitted to be imported, muſt be brought by Britiſh ſubjects in Britiſh ſhips, on penalty of forfeiture.

WILMINGTON, (N. C.) April 30.

We learn from Dobb's county, in this ſtate, that on Sunday the 13th inſt. a fracas happened between colonel Benjamin Shepherd and Mr. William Barfield, which originated in a diſpute relative to the propoſed conſtitution, the particulars of which are as follow:

Colonel Shepherd not agreeing in ſentiment with Mr. Barfield, with reſpect to the new conſtitution, and while diſcuſſing the ſubject (being irritated with Mr. Barfield) proceeded to chaſtiſe him with a whip, which an apprentice boy (of Mr. Barfield's) perceiving, took up a broad axe and ſtruck colonel Shepherd on the cheek, and thereby cut off a ſide of his face, and broke his collar bone. A nephew of colonel Shepherd, who happened to be preſent, wreſted the axe from the youth, upon which he took his maſter's rifle, (it being then loaded) and ſhot at colonel Shepherd's nephew, but providentially only wounded him in both arms, one of which has ſince been amputated; our informant adds, that colonel Shepherd has ſince died of his wounds.

BALTIMORE, May 31.

The ſloop George, captain Chace, which carried the account of the ratification of the federal conſtitution by this ſtate to South-Carolina, is juſt returned, and has brought the following intereſting information:

On the 23d inſtant, at five o'clock in the evening, the queſtion was put, That the convention aſſent to and ratify the federal conſtitution for the United States of America? Upon which the votes ſtood as follow: for the ratification 149—Againſt it 73—Majority 76.

South-Carolina is the eighth ſtate which has ratified the conſtitution; and as it appears from the beſt authority, that Virginia is well diſpoſed to its adoption, and is to meet in convention on Monday next, we may flatter ourſelves ſhe will make the ninth.

Thus there is the ſtrongeſt probability, that, in a few weeks, one of the greateſt of human revolutions will be accompliſhed—a free government erected by a free people, capable of reviving our trade, protecting our manufactures, and rendering us happy at home, and reſpected abroad. We underſtand that there is to be a diſcharge of artillery from FEDERAL-HILL this evening, at 5 o'clock, IN HONOUR OF THE STATE OF SOUTH-CAROLINA.

ANNAPOLIS, June 5.

To an AMERICAN in EUROPE, 1788.

SINCE thou for pleaſure, knowledge, or for gain,
First plough'd the ſtormy, raging wat'ry main,
And left thy native, unprotected land,
Held but in union by a rope of ſand;
To union, liberty, to love and peace
Inſcrib'd, 'till all tarraqueous things ſhall ceaſe,
A temple's ground-work, is begun and laid,
Not made with hands, but all divinely made.—
Seven pillars finiſh'd, ſix more ſollow quick,
To include the whole, o'the body politic,
So well cemented, that no hoſtile foe
Shall e'er the ſacred edifice o'erthrow.
For this your country bravely fought and bled
When tyranny firſt ſhew'd its baneful head;
For this they conquer'd, and the prize have gain'd,
Fair liberty—by blood and wealth obtain'd.
Return then, joyful, when affairs admit,
Or your convenience ſoon or late may fit.—
Fear not the noiſy, venal, worthleſs crew,
Who would this fabric, if they could, undo.
Fix'd on a rock, it muſt for ever ſtand,
And from its foes, reſpect, at laſt command.
Our wiſeſt ſages, form'd this glorious plan,
Which is rever'd by every honeſt man.
'Twill be ſupported, by good men and true,
Altho' oppoſ'd by meddling folks—a few;
Who critic-like, find fault with and condemn
Each work not plann'd, and ſet on foot by them.—
Return in health, to peace, good government,
To better proſpects, than from which you went,
While "anarchy, no government, confuſion,"
Shall ne'er among us, henceforth gain intruſion.
